The Silk Factory

A talk by Judith Allnatt

Wednesday 23rd May at 7.00 for 7.30 pm
Ravensthorpe Village Hall NN6 8EH

Judith Allnatt is an acclaimed short story writer and author of The Silk Factory

The novel is set in 19th century Northamptonshire and described as 'a beautiful and eerie story of love and memory'. Judith's talk this evening will be a revealing step back into her inspiration for The Silk Factory, the historical tale of the real silk weavers of Northamptonshire and the miserable fate of child labourers who were forced to work long hours as bobbin-winders. Judith was shortlisted for the East Midlands Book Award with her novel The Poet's Wife, a story on the life of Patty, the poet John Clare's wife. She is also an experienced Creative Writing lecturer.

Don't miss your chance to hear the storyteller speak.
